Program features

• Offered entirely online — complete the entire program at a time and location that’s convenient for you, without the need to commute to campus

• Learn from UNI faculty in the areas of Art Education, Art History, and Studio Art

• Designed for individuals in an instructional capacity in art classrooms. Applicants must have a B.A. in Art Education. Applicants with a B.A. in Art History or B.A. or B.F.A. in Studio Art must also have a teaching certificate.

• Curriculum aligns with student activities in classroom experiences

• Includes courses addressing models of inquiry and practice that help to establish stronger links between theory and practice in art education

• Delivered on a cohort basis and completed in five consecutive semesters

Flexible learning for a busy life

Courses in this program are offered Wednesday evenings using a combination of Adobe Connect, a desktop video conferencing system, online via eLearning, a Blackboard learning management system, and individual instructor/student conferencing. Courses taught in year one are designed to explore contemporary themes of art education in eight-week modules. Courses instructed in year two will be delivered in sixteen-week modules to allow implementation of research and writing.
